Looking after Yourself

Social media age restrictions

looking after yourself

Only inviting people you actually know in the real world to be your friends in the online world.

Choosing online names that are suitable and respectful.

looking after yourself

Only putting information online that is appropriate and posting pictures that are suitable.

looking after yourself

I will use passwords that are hard to guess and keep these secret.

looking after yourself

Always reporting anything that happens online which makes you feel uncomfortable or unhappy.

Talking to trusted adults, like your parents and teachers, about your online experiences.

looking after yourself

The brain craves exercise. But we've built our classrooms and cubicles around sitting for eight hours a day.

The Grandma Rule

If you wouldn't show it to your grandma, its not suitable

looking after others

I will show care by not visiting websites that are disrespectful—showing people behaving inappropriately or illegally, are racist, bigoted or unkind.

looking after others

I will show care by not getting involved in conversations that are unkind, mean or bullying.

looking after others

I will show care by reporting any conversations you see that are unkind, mean or bullying.

looking after others

I will show care by not flaming people, or forwarding messages that are inappropriate.

I will show respect for other's privacy by not trying to get into their online spaces without invitation, by not stalking them.

Looking after Property

By not stealing other people's property. Software Piracy

NZ copyright law allows family sharing of media within the household/family living at home

By not sharing the music, movies, games and other software that you own with other people.
